The following dispatches from Major General Canby report the capture of Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely, which form a part of the rebel defenses of the city of Mobile:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE MISSISSIPPI, IN THE FIELD,
April 9th, 1865—8 P. M.

To Major Gen. H. W. Halleck, Chief of Staff:

Spanish Fort and its dependencies were captured last night. We have twenty-five officers and one hundred and fifty prisoners, and have taken five mortars and twenty-five guns. The water part of the garrison escaped by water. Blakely (twenty-five miles up the river) was captured to-day, before the works are stronger than I were before them in force.

THE GREAT CALAMITY.

Meeting of Miscellaneous—Tributes of Respect to the Late President.

[Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, April 18.

Previous to a call by Hons. Alex. Ramsey and D. S. Norton, the Miscellaneous Members of Congress met at the room of the former gentlemen at the National Hotel to-day, to adopt measures appropriate to the occasion of the great national calamity. On motion of Hon. Mr. Wilkinson, Hon. Mr. Ramsey was called to the chair, and Hon. Mr. Wilkinson, Hon. J. F. Stack Gutelius, T. A. Ashley, Dr. G. A. Sturges, Thomas Williamson, A. Bickler, and J. J. Kaufmann were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting on the subject of importance, we reproduce it, in correct copy for the reproval by our readers. Having previously commented on it at considerable length, we refrain from making any remarks at this time, except to say that it will rank as one of the most remarkable productions of this most remarkable age.

Poor old Frank ought to have stuck to the first bulletin and withdrawn from the field and thereby saved his reputation for sense and avoided the terrible defeat he received. But he allowed the editor of the Times to persuade him that he might be elected. Behold the result!

[Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

INDIANAPOLIS, April 18.

Governor Morton has issued a proclamation announcing the death of the President, and directing that all flags in the State be displayed at half-mast for thirty days, and that all persons who participate in any public demonstration of sympathy with the assassin of the President will be arrested and punished.

THE NEWS.

The Republican will continue to be filled with the most thrilling details of the great tragedy at Washington. Both Secretary Seward and his son are slowly recovering, the former displaying astonishing physical vitality and mental power. The horrible details of the dark deeds in the bed chamber is unrevealed to-night. The bravery and desperate exploits of the unarmed invalid soldier, struggling with his athletic foe, in protest of the Secretary, read almost like a romance, and will never cease to shine with unfading lustre around the Patriotic, fell close to the pinion of the noble patriot. He is every inch a hero. The assassin has undoubtedly been arrested, but the identification by the proper parties has not yet been made. Dispatches report him Boyd, or Surratt, or the notorious "French Lady," and as a "Negro." Both statements cannot be true, and neither is fully sustained. The story of the surrounding of thirty of the conspirators in Maryland needs confirmation. One of the conspirators arrested in Maryland has made a confession, acknowledging himself as the writer of the letter found in Booth's pocket, signed "Wm. Bruce," and stating that it was the original intention only to kidnap the President and thereby secure a general release of the rebel prisoners. When the general exchange commenced the plan was abandoned and the conspiracy to assassinate formed.

It is shown in the investigation now pending, that Generals Grant and Butler were included in the plot. Nothing can show more fully the brutality and fiendishness of this than the fact that almost the last act of the President before entering the theatre was to instruct peremptorily and positively that no one else be stood upon the pavement.

Mrs. Lincoln has expressed a desire to have the remains of the President deposited in the crypt beneath the rotunda of the Capitol, but will probably consent that they shall be buried in his old home at Springfield. The horrible bereavement and the dreadful scenes through which she has passed, have brought on a serious attack of illness, and all visitors are at present forbidden.

The official bulletin from Secretary Stanton confirms the capture of Mobile. At midnight Fort Gaines, five mortars, and forty-five guns, and at Blakely 240 men and forty guns fell into our hands.

The latest intelligence from Gen. Sherman places him at Smithfield, N. C., at which point, on the 17th, he announced the surrender of Lee to his army. Raleigh was captured on the 13th, on the approach of Sherman, after a very brief and feeble resistance. President Johnson's policy, as indicated to several delegations that have called upon him, is now pretty well settled. To the common people of the South he will extend clemency, but the unrepentant leaders of the rebellion he is determined to punish. In this spirit reaches the argument in his remark that "mercy is the individual is not always mercy to the State."

The Union victory in this city yesterday is one of truly "gigantic dimensions." The copperhead party was literally wiped out of existence, going down like the tyrant's chair with a majority of 5,000. Seven Union Aldermen out of sixteen were elected, making the new board stand Union 14, Democrats 8. The old board stood Union 12, Democrats 15.

A dispatch from North Carolina gives the most encouraging account of Sherman's progress. At Salisbury his capture of stores and materials were immense, and must have proved nearly all the available supplies in the Confederacy.

Gen. E. B. Washburne, who has just returned from Gen. Grant's army reports that the time of his departure 25,000 paroles had been granted, and 134 pieces of artillery delivered.

Vance, the rebel Governor of North Carolina, has been captured by our cavalry. He was pursued by Johnston to arrest the State of North Carolina to Gen. Sherman. After his departure the order was countermanded, probably by Jeff. Davis, who prevented to be with Johnston's army, then attempted to return, but was captured, and is now held as a prisoner of war.

THE ELECTION YESTERDAY.

Yesterday morning we appealed to the Democrats in Chicago in whose breasts patriotism was still stronger than partisanship, to abandon the party to which the parricide Booth had belonged, and to support the ticket of the party to which the martyred President belonged, and thereby testify their keenness of the great crime. We are glad to see testimony to the fact that hundreds of Democrats so adopted our advice and voted the straight Republican ticket; other hundreds refrained from voting altogether, being ashamed to support the Copperhead ticket, but not manly enough to follow it sometimes do right. Hence the overwhelming majority for the Union nominees. Out of the seven Wards the Copperheads carried three, and the popular majority for the Republican ticket foots up on a slight vote 5,600. Chicago has elected herself right nobly indeed. Her municipal government hereafter will be administered by "true and reliable Union men and somewhere."

MR. LINCOLN'S LAST SPEECH.

Some days ago we published Mr. Lincoln's speech to the people of Washington on the important question of reconstruction. As it was badly transmitted by the telegraph, and is the last one ever made by the lamented President, and was on a subject of the highest national importance, we reproduce it, in correct copy for the reproval by our readers. Having previously commented on it at considerable length, we refrain from making any remarks at this time, except to say that it will rank as one of the most remarkable productions of this most remarkable age.
